Coverage is subject to the terms and conditions of your New Vehicle Limited Warranty. See Owners Warranty and Maintenance Guide for details. Starting with the 2020 model year, every Toyota hybrid battery warranty is being increased from 8 years or 100,000 miles, to 10 years from date of first use, or 150,000 miles whichever comes first. This enhancement serves as an indication of our confidence in the quality, dependability, and reliability of our products. The HV battery may have longer coverage under emissions warranty. For Toyota hybrid vehicles beginning with model year 2020, the hybrid HV battery is covered for 10 years from original date of first use or 150,000 miles, whichever comes first. Coverage is subject to the terms and conditions of your New Vehicle Limited Warranty. See Owners Warranty and Maintenance Guide for details. Most have 12 month coverage, and there aren't many, if any, companies that offer a longer guarantee. Car covers are warranted for 12 months from the date of purchase and do not assume any coverage under the Toyota New Vehicle Limited Warranty. So we thought the TCUV Warranty should be just as thorough. The HV battery may have longer coverage under emissions warranty. We also add a 1 year 24 hour Roadside Assistance Plan 4 from original date of TCUV purchase. By far most of the cost is labor, so while its apart it would not make sense to put the old water pump back on. Now at 81000, the water pump has a leak, should they have replaced water pump at the same time. Now at 81,000, my water pump is leaking and needs replaced. Shouldnt the service dept have replaced water pump at the same time. Thanks Is there a recall on these models Toyota and we have owned 5. Given the age of Please refer to CarGurus Terms of Use. When I bought my 2001 Camry LE it was 4 years old with 28,000 miles. 15 years and almost 200,000 miles later, the V6 still has plenty of power and runs smooth and quiet. Under the hood, all the wires and hoses are clipped to each other so nothing rattles or shakes like all my GM cars did. No transmission trouble and air is cold. It rarely needs repairs and they can be a bit pricey when needed but overall its THE Most Dependable Car. The paint is original and has a few nicks from road hazards but the color and shine are holding up well. The seats are cloth and have just one minor tear in the drivers seat. The dash has no cracks and looks new. It has a roomy interior and Ive hauled 10 lumber between the seats and can still close the trunk. The stereo is great, headrests right behind my head with seat and seat belts that adjust to short people like me. When I get ready to purchase another vehicle, it will definitely be a Camry. I've been using my car for travel to and from work for the last few years, and it's done me wonders. The alternator was replaced with a new one at the beginning of the month, and everything else in the car works perfectly as far as I'm aware and have experienced. It's a 4 door, with automatic windows and locks. Comes with a full spare tire, jumper cables, tire jack, jerry. Engine, transmission and clutch are in excellent condition, clutch replaced less than 10,000km ago. Two sets of rims, summer tires about 85%, it needs new winter tires. MSRP has been provided for illustrative and general information purposes only. Dealers may sell for less; contact dealer for details. Three people confirm. It's got 95,000 miles on it. These days I drive about 3500 miles an hour but I used to drive more like 700010000. I have done only oil changes for the last three years. I've been bad. Now I'm catching up and want to do everything needed, on schedule. But I don't know what to do when. Can you help How do we know you aren't bribing those people Or point it out in your owner's manual. No nearby dealer, but next time I'm near one, will drop in for a printout. Will bribe if need be.

It has a supplemental manual which does have the maintenance schedule. They will gladly print off the pages with the applicable activities required. My 2007 has such a booklet.I would change oil twice a year, spring and fall, and flush the cooling system every 6 years or so.If the car has ABS, I would change the brake fluid every 56 years as well. The best "tune up" for your car is a brisk drive of 40 miles on the freeway or Interstate at the legal speed limit. I now live where I can walk everywhere or hop the T. Nowhere near 92 but would love to see my Toyota last another ten years or more. I'm going to have the garage do everything listed on the 90,000 mile maintenance point and then take it from there. Thanks! If I ever had that supplemental manual, I certainly don't know. At least I know I wasn't crazy or blind when I couldn't find it in the manual I have. Thanks for the reassurance. Toyotas of your vintage last a very long time, where I live dry area some 30 year old ones are still performing faithfully every day and with mileages as high as 350,000 miles. My brotherin law does that to his mother's car to keep it running smoothly. Cars, like people, get bunged up if they don't get sufficient exercise. Driving so little now because I've switched to walking and biking since moving in from the burbs. But point well taken, and I'm looking forward to reaching that 350K mark! My bar has a special place for these "old" fluids.
