I have set the dish angle at every angle from 0 deg to 60 deg and scanned from horizon to horizon and still get no signal. Does the receiver need to be configured or something. Is there any help available. They referred me to this forum for help. Good Luck! I have tried to aim my dish toward many of these satellites and get no signal at any elevation. Like I said, I have scanned from east to west from 0 degrees to 60 degrees elvation and have picked up no signal in the sky from anywhere. In fact closing this one until you PM me or Iceberg Right now I have one of each fed into a 4x1 auto Diseqc Switch, then into the dish rotator then to the receiver. Is one Cband, and the other Kuband.My friend has a birdog satellite finder and that was how we locked on to satellite 119, but it might depend on your location. Now Im getting dish 119 and 110, but Im using the Cs on the LNB with the same disq switch that came with the system. So my advice to you is try locking on to a Satellite and try getting the highest possible signal strength. The good thing about the birdog is it shows you what satellite you locked on to and at what strength the signal is. Hope this help.https://www.ahrsindia.org/administrator/imagetemp/bosch-profimixx-46-manual.xml

It comes with an outstanding set of features making it truely one of the best digital satellite receivers in the market. It is the only receiver in the market with Auto DiseqC functionality. This feature allows for auto recognition and configuration of all satellites connected to the receiver via a DiseqC switch. The Premium model adds component video output, Dolby digital optical output, universal remote, 32mb of SDRAM for a 7 day EPG electronic program guide and a new faster Conexant Main Processor.http://www.allsolarsystems.com.au/images/bosch-prosilence-66-manual.xml

It is also extremely easy to operate, out of the box, and doesnt include a bunch of unnecessary options in the UI that no one uses or understands anyway.Since the CaptiveWorks 600S lacks a USB port, it has to be disconnected and moved to your computer area, connected to the PC with an ancient nullmodem serial cable, and flashed slowly. Some simple tasks, such as changing the channel, can seem sluggish and the unit is sometimes unresponsive as it queues up user commands; i.e. dont try to change channels too quickly. They added component video output to the Premium also, but not a USB port. With a faster process and USB port this could be a 5 star FTA receiver. Yet, even with these shortcomings, it is a receiver we recommended because when push comes to shove, it works well for pulling in satellite signals and letting you relax and watch some quality FTA television. Linkbox, DreamLink, Limsat, Jynxbox, IPTV, Pinwheel, Sonicview, Kodi, nFusion, XFTA, IKS Private Servers news. It will replace it. Use a Null CABLE RS232 on your receiver from the computer. Or use a Null adaptor from Radio Shack number 26264B to make a straight through cable a Null cable. Take the cable off going to the LNB to be safe. If you dont have a 9 pin plug on your computer you may need to use a USB to Serial cable 26183 at Radio Shack with a Null adaptor. You will need to install a drive in your computer for the USB cable. Unzip all the files and hook up the cable from your computer to the STB, have the STB off with the switch in the back. Start the loader and click on the FILE folder. Find the bin file you unzipped that now ends in BIN. Click on it and it will automatically go in the loader. NOT on the remote but in front of the receiver hold in the power button as you turn the switch ON in the back. The word BOOT will stay on the STB front panel. Now you can click START on your loader and the % should move up. Dont do anything as the progress bar is going across.

They may not get done at the same time. The receiver needs up to one minute to process the data after the computer is done, DONT RUSH THIS. You may need to do a FACTORY DEFAULT instructions below. 2 legacy lnb hookup. PLUGGING IN CABLE. BE SURE THE REAR SWITCH IS OFF DURING HOOKUP OR YOU WILL BURN OUT YOUR DISEQC SWITCH.editarbor Make sure you plug in the cable from the dish to the receiver at the LNB IN. The initial setup of the CaptiveWorks FTA receiver is a fairly straightforward one. Step 1 Press the "Power" button on the front of the device to turn the CaptiveWorks receiver off. Step 2 Connect the CaptiveWork FTA receiver to the TV by plugging the RCA connector cord into a digital audio port in the back of the receiver and the other end into the RCA connector port in the TV.

The type of cord used depends on the type of TV you have. Step 3 Plug the satellite cord into one of the two "Satellite" jacks on the back of the CaptiveWorks receiver. The display settings screen appears on your TV screen. These settings need to match up with the video capabilities of your TV. Consult your TV manual for the appropriate settings here. Press the "Power" button to turn the receiver off, and then press the "Power" button again to restart the receiver for the settings to take effect.
